hen "Sing me your story, dance me home," opens Sunday at the Grace Hudson Museum, it won't just be the first exhibit of Native American art to feature poetry at the museum, but also the first exhibit you can visit over the phone.

"This is an exhibit that is meant to be seen and heard," said Director Sherrie Smith-Ferri, who is a member of the Dry Creek Pomo Indians as well as the Bodega Miwok.

"Sing me your story, dance me home" is a collection of contemporary art and poetry from more than 30 artists. Accompanying the display will be an audio tour, which visitors can listen to while browsing. The audio tour will feature poets reading their poems as well as

The Daily Journal

A Ukiah man who was arrested on domestic violence charges Saturday but who later posted bail was arrested again Thursday after Ukiah Police officers found the gun he is alleged to have used in the attack.

According to UPD reports, the suspect, Tony Jones, 34, of Ukiah, was first arrested on Lockwood Drive at around 2:40 p.m. Saturday. Officers had responded to the home on reports that Witnesses say he punched wife in Jones had allegedly been beating his wife Tabitha Busch, 40, of Ukiah, had supand was armed with a pistol.

Witnesses to the incident told officers that Jones had punched his wife in the face, drawn a pistol he had tucked into the waistband of his jeans and threatened her with it, according to UPD reports.

Officers found Jones and searched him, finding ammunition but not a gun. Jones was arrested on charges of domestic violence and being a felon in possession of ammunition. He was booked into the Mendocino County Jail but posted bail shortly thereafter and was released.

An emergency protective order was obtained for Jones' wife, police said.

Further investigation by UPD Detective Chris Long revealed that plied Jones with the pistol, according to police reports.

At 5 p.m. Wednesday, UPD officers served a search warrant on Busch's home at 701 Boonville Road and allegedly found the pistol Jones used in the alleged domestic assault, as well as additional ammunition.

On Thursday, UPD officers again arrested Jones, this time on suspicion of being a felon in possession of a firearm, committing a felony while armed and making terrorist threats, He was booked into county jail.

Busch is currently under investigation as to her involvement in this incident, police said.

Kucinich's wife cancels planned stop in Hopland

By ROB BURGESS

The Daily Journal Hey, guess what? Elizabeth Kucinich is coming to Mendocino County.

Wait. Hold on. No, actually she isn't.

In what should be a familiar tale to perennially disappointed support-ers of Democratic presidential aspirant Rep. Dennis Kucinich (D-Ohio), a scheduled appearance by the congressman's wife has once again been announced and then subsequently canceled.

Elizabeth Kucinich had been slated to make an appearance at a campaign meet-and-greet from 4 to 6 p.m. Saturday at the Real Goods Solar Institute Living Hopland.

The appearance, not the event, was almost assuredly scrapped Thursday ahead of an announcement at planned Friday press conference that Kucinich was

South Ukiah Rotarians use giant Super Bowl party for fun and funds

The Daily Journal

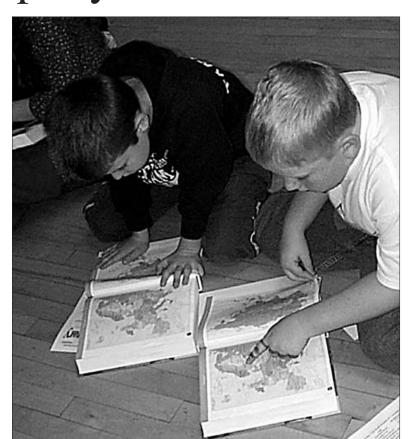

Members of South Ukiah Rotary are making preparations now for the annual Super Bowl party, which will be held on Sunday, February 3 at the Ukiah Conference Center in downtown Ukiah. Funds which are raised through this and other Rotary events are well spent in the local area for Rotary's many community service projects.

Tickets for the event are $110 each, which admits two people to the event, featuring an endless buffet table, drinks, an opportunity to win prizes, and an unobstructed view of the giant screen to watch Super Bowl XLII between the New England Patriots and the New York Giants. The doors open at 2:30 p.m.

"And don't forget those memorable Super Bowl commercials," said South Ukiah Rotary president Jim Sligh. "With those, and the game, and the fellowship, and the food, some folks call this Ukiah's biggest tailgate party."

At the same time that both NFL players and Rotarians are training and preparing for the their big event, local Rotarians continue to be involved in a variety of community and international

"A nation or civilization that continues to produce soft-minded men purchases its own spiritual death on the installment plan." --Martin Luther King Jr.

Where she is now. . . Dianne Marshall, former American Red Cross Director, former Therapeutic Courts Administrator for Mendocino County Superior Court, is now working on two major projects: A statewide conference for the Calif. Association of Drug Court Professionals, in April in Anaheim; and she is helping the Frank R. Howard Foundation raise needed funds to be able to leverage a loan to get the hospital built in Willits.

Dianne is a brilliant strategist and fundraiser. She's also been politically active since a youth, walked in the 1963 March on Washington where Martin Luther King, Jr. gave his "I Have A Dream" speech raising public consciousness of the civil rights movement and establishing King as one of the greatest orators in American history. She still has a banner from this event.

Retirement: In April Dianne, and in June hubby Lauren Giles, retired (he from teaching 22 years) and went on a river cruise from Moscow to St. Petersburg, some 800 miles. They slept and ate on the boat, had boat tour guides and city tour guides. The on-board guides were students from a linguistics institute, practicing their English.

Also an on board was a lecturer, a professor from the same institution, born in 1934, under Stalin. Her father 1934, under Stalin. Her father was a tank driver in WWII, killed in the first three months of service. She grew up feeling safe under Stalin; a warm place to live, food to eat. As an adult, she figured out the Communist party only took care of its own, refused to join, and lost a grandfather and several uncles to Stalin's violence.

The professor bravely invited students to talk to the passengers about their hopes and fears of their country and it turns out that substance abuse is a big concern for the youth of Russia. Russia is still in economic upheaval and the students fear that the government won't be stabilized. They thought Vladimir Vladimirovich Putin, the current President of the Russian Federation, was a good person and a stabilizing influence and were concerned he'd be gone in the recent elections (he isn't -- he won!).

Frank R. Howard

Hospital... Dianne firmly believes it is important not to quit, and quoted Margaret Mead who, when she died in 1978, was the most famous anthropologist in the world.

"'Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful, committed citizens can change the world; indeed, it's the only thing that ever has.' For the rural economically challenged community that the Willits area is, it is phenomenal to have raised almost $13 million to get this loan.

"The total project is $54 million for a new hospital. To be able to get a loan for the bulk of that a down payment of 30 percent is required, which is what the local community has been doing. Three of the major contributors have been the City of Willits, Adventist Health and Jane Harrah. The 'down payment' amount needed is approx $16 million, of which $13 million has already been raised.

"Those wishing to contribute through payroll deductions should contact their Human Resources department and have them contact the Frank R. Howard Foundation at 459-2777 for further information."

Dianne has evolved, not only working with the statewide conference, but also working with Friends in Drug Court, a group working on raising money. Their goal is to raise $100,000 for a fund located within the Mendocino Comm Foundation, in order to award grants of up to $5,000 year.

Money from the grants can be used for a variety of things: To buy cell phones so people can call the hot line to know when to come in and drug test; membership to health club; to buy car repairs; buy liver scans; buy paint to help kids paint rooms so the rooms don't have gang colors when their babies are born; support the Passages program at Youth Project to buy healthy snacks for treatment groups; supporting a nutrition program being offered to adult drug court participants (how to shop, cook, how to give their body good fuel); and other great things.

Retirement is no rocking chair for Dianne! She quotes a favorite visual: A woman, sitting in a rocking chair in the rain holding an umbrella, and the quote is "Commitment will prevail over circumstance."

Women's History Gala..
This year's Women's History Gala -- bringing focus to Women's History Month -- celebrates its 25th anniversary in March and the occasion will be dynamic.

The purpose of Women's History Month is to increase consciousness and knowledge of women's history: to take one month of the year to remember the contributions of notable and ordinary women, in hopes that the day will soon come when it's impossible to teach or learn history without remembering these contributions.

Sponsored by Mendocino National Women's Political Caucus, this year's event is Sunday, March 9 -- time and place to be determined (because of the huge names in entertainment coming to the celebration, event planners are looking for a larger venue in which to hold the celebration). Ronnie Gilbert has just today been confirmed as the lead vocalist and another major star is looking at her schedule to attend.

Mark your calendars now to be part of this great celebration. The planning committee may be contacted for more information: Val Muchowski (895-3543); Arleen Shippey (462-7173); Judy Pruden; Katarzyna Rolzinski; Lois Lockart; Ginger Pohlson; Susan Bell; Estelle P. Clifton; Joan Eriksen; Madelyn McCauley and Ruth Van Antwerp.

Scrafters' Retreat... A

new word has been coined for a new event: Scrapbook and Crafter turned into "Scrafters" for a group of women from First Presbyterian Church, Ukiah. They are sponsoring a retreat for women on Saturday, Feb. 2, at Bromley Hall at the church (514 W. Church, Ukiah), from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The $5 entry fee for the day includes coffee, tea and lunch and more. Tickets are available at the door; advance notice is requested but not required. For tickets, contact: Denise Beckler -- 463-1198; Caroline Crowley -- 4628460; Shirley Lewis -- 485-5536 or Linda Logan -- 462-8269.

Dance for a Good Cause... There is another opportunity to dance to lively Cajun music at the United Methodist Church in Ukiah on Saturday, Feb. 2. To once again benefit the next Katrina Relief Team from Ukiah, the dance will begin at 7:30 p.m. and continue until 10:30 p.m.

Live Cajun music will be provided by The Good Bayou Boys: Dennis Hadley, Don Coffin, and Gus Garelick. Free dance lessons will be offered as part of the evening.

Advance prices are $8 for general admission and $6 for seniors and students. Prices at the door will be $9 general and $7 for seniors and students. Tickets are available at Dig! Music and at the church between the hours of 9 a.m. and noon.

The United Methodist Church is located at 270 North Pine Street. The parking lot is located on the Bush Street side. Call 462-3360 for more information.

Sock hop is back...
March 15 is Ukiahi's fantastic new fundraiser, a mystery dinner at a '50s sock hop. Oh yeah! We,ll be in poodle skirts, singing doo wop and having a grand old time. Who knows... there may even be some great old cars on hand. Don't have details yet on the time but this is certainly down on my calendar! Stay tuned. Cheer-i-o!

Letters from our readers

More and more questions

To the Editor:

We all know about the serious "misunderstandings" of our so called "intelligence" agencies leading to the lies told by our President to justify the invasion of Iraq. You know what I mean: "They had weapons of mass destruction and they were responsible for 9/11, etc. etc. etc.' Remember General Powell referring to those dastardly aluminum tubes and then, how about the ridiculous outing of FBI Agent Plame" I will not embarrass American citizens with the details of their "perception blackouts." How can anybody trust the conclusions of our "intelligence" agencies any more?

But the "Filipino Monkey" threatens to be the coup de grace of United States military responses. It seems that back on Jan. 6, the U.S. cruiser Port Royal was meandering through the Straight of Hormuz just off the coast of Iran when they encountered a small open boat. The Iranian officer reportedly asked the U.S. warship to change to a common bridge to bridge channel when their conversation was interrupted by a voice saying, "I am coming to you. You will explode in a few minutes." After some consideration by the commander of the Port Royal to blow the Iranian vessel out of the water, he thought better of it and sailed away.

Now, the conclusion is that the threatening radio transmission may have come from a locally famous heckler known among ship drivers in the area as the "Filipino Monkey."

"For 25 years there's been this mythical guy out there who, hour after hour, shouts obscenities and threats," said an experi-enced retired Captain. "The Filipino Monkey has been operating in these waters for years," said the Officer.

It would be difficult to imagine the repercussions if the Commander of the Port Royal had indeed "blown the vessel out of the water."

Many questions remain:

- 1. Is it possible that our Naval Military warships do not have the technology to determine who they are speaking to?
- 2. Is there any evidence that our massive military forces can find the Filipino Monkey or will he be just as elusive as Bin Laden?
- 3. Do you think our intelligence agencies will ever get it right?
- 4. Why do we listen to them at all? (Why do we have so many of them anyhow? Why can't they communicate with each other?)

Not a fan of new Hopland roundabout

To the Editor:

An Open Letter to CalTrans:

This is a thank-you note for constructing the new turning circle on Highway 175 at the north end of Old Hopland. We had a terrible problem here with drunk drivers leaving the casino at night, and being unable to negotiate the 90 degree turn here as they sped through town at 70 mph. Now that they have to negotiate a 180 degree turn as they speed through town at 70 mph, there should be a great many more horrible accidents in which these drunk drivers will die, thus getting them off our roadways.

I also feel I must point out that installing the large, incredibly bright lights that illuminate the new turning circle seems to have been a mistake. Obviously without the aid of all those lights, the drunk drivers speeding at night through town at 70 mph would kill themselves much more often. Sure they may take-out some innocent citizens, but you can't implement these kinds of progressive policies without a little collateral damage.

Also, while we're talking about the lights, I should mention their more positive aspects. I used to step onto my porch at night and see nothing but scary darkness, and that annoying night sky with those messy stars, nebulae, and that awful Milky Way that was so bright it seemed like you could just reach up and touch it. Now that my night time view is more akin to a Wal-Mart parking lot, I no longer have to put up with all that grotesque nature.

LETTER POLICY

The Daily Journal welcomes letters to the editor. All letters must include a clear name, signature, return address and phone number. Letters chosen for publication are generally published in the order they are received, but shorter, concise letters are given preference. We publish most of the letters we receive, but we cannot guarantee publication. Names will not be withheld for any reason. If we are aware that you are connected to a local organization or are an elected official writing about the organization or body on which you serve, that will be included in your signature. If you want to make it clear you are not speaking for that organization, you should do so in your letter. All letters are subject to editing without notice. Editing is generally limited to removing statements that are potentially libelous or are not suitable for a family newspaper. Form letters that are clearly part of a write-in campaign will not be published. You may drop letters off at our office at 590 S. School St., or fax letters to 468-3544, mail to Letters to the Editor, P.O. Box 749, Ukiah, 95482 or e-mail them to udj@pacific.net. E-mail letters should also include hometown and a phone number.

Again, to whomever made these decisions to construct this turning circle here in Old Hopland, where people have been living a peaceful, quiet life under a clear night sky for just generations now, thank you. It's good to know you didn't decide on some silly approach to the problem, like arresting the drunk drivers speed through the middle of our town. I mean how could that have possibly been more efficient and cost effective?

Scooter available to veteran

To the Editor:

I have had a like-new ele-wheel-chairscooter donated to me and I need a disabled American veteran to accept it. I put new batteries in it and it is ready for years of service to a deserving vet who has served his/her country and has need of it.

It is free because you have helped us stay free by your service to this great coun-

The only requirements are as follows: That you be a U. S. veteran, and dis-

That you agree to keep it as long as you need it, and your family agrees and when you no longer need it, you must return it to the "V.S.O (Veterans' Service Office)" in Ukiah;

That you can not give it away, rent it out, loan or sell it;

THANK YOU LETTER POLICY

Editor's note: The Daily Journal welcomes letters of thanks from organizations and individuals. We are glad that so many successful events are held here. However, thank you letters must be kept short. For that reason we have a 20-business name limit per letter. If your letter lists more than 20 businesses it will not be printed. Shorter thank you letters which do not contain lists of participants or donors will be printed more quickly. Those wishing to thank long lists of people and businesses are welcome to contact our advertising department for help with a thank you ad.

Subtext moves to the front

Nevada's caucuses turned a simmering subtext of the Democratic presidential nomination contest into a dominant narrative. South Carolina winnowed out a Republican candidate, whether Mike Huckabee knows it or not, and the candidate who counted on being winnowed in there, Fred Thompson, wasn't.

Speaking in the sunshine after her Nevada victory, Hillary Clinton said there were many people to thank but mentioned only one: Antonio Villaraigosa, Los Angeles' Hispanic mayor. Her 64 percent of Nevada's Hispanic vote produced her victory. Although the culinary workers union had endorsed Barack Obama, many of its workers are Hispanic and went their own way.

The 22 Democratic primaries and caucuses of Feb. 5 occur in many states with huge Hispanic populations (e.g., California, New York, New Jersey, Obama's Illinois), so for Obama's campaign, the suddenly pressing question is: Will America's largest minority, Hispanics, support a candidate from the second-largest minority, African-Americans?

Also, Obama seems flummoxed by the Clintons' Clintonness. When he committed the gaffe (defined as the utterance of a truth in conditions inhospitable to that fugitive virtue) of saying that for many years the Republicans were "the party of ideas," he was merely repeating something said decades ago by an exemplary Democrat, the senator whose seat Clinton fills -- well, occupies: Pat Moynihan.

Clinton promptly resorted to the sort of bilge that the adjective "Clintonian" was created to denote. She said she did not think privatizing Social Security was "a better idea." As a fellow so usefully said in Charles Dickens' "The Pickwick Papers," "That 'ere song's political; and, wot's much the same, that it ain't true." Obama had of course said nothing about conservative ideas being "better."

One of the Obama campaign's senior leaders, who must have dozed through the 1990s, has expressed astonishment at the Clintons' intellectual sociopathy, as when they audaciously charge that Obama is a tepid defender of abortion rights. Their evidence is that on an abortion-related vote in the Illinois Legislature, he voted "present." The Clintons certainly know, and just as certainly do not care, that Obama's vote was tactical, cast for procedural reasons at the behest of abortion-rights leaders in Illinois.

A populist to whom the people are indifferent is a melancholy spectacle, and John Edwards won just 4 percent in Nevada, where his courtship of unions was supposed to elevate him to the top of the class struggle's barricades. He has competed in three states (Iowa, New Hampshire and Nevada) and lost them by increasing margins. Someone should tell him the joke that another populist, William Jennings Bryan, told on himself after losing three presidential elections (1896, 1900 and 1908) as the Democrats' nominee:

A man tried three times to enter a saloon and three times was tossed out. After the third time he dusted himself off and said, "I'm beginning to think those fellows don't want me in there.'

Edwards, who probably will finish a distant third in South Carolina this Saturday, where he won in 2004, soon will run the risk of having the dreaded S-word affixed to him: Harold Stassen's persistence in seeking the presidency rendered him ridiculous. Edwards might consider supporting Obama, who Edwards has identified as a candidate of "change," against Clinton, who Edwards says is a candidate of "the status quo." Edwards' departure from the contest could, however, serve Clinton by freeing up some white male voters who might then support her.

Thompson could leave the race and continue to support John McCain. In New Hampshire, Thompson attacked McCain's principal problem there, Mitt Romney. In South Carolina, Thompson's attack on Huckabee as a "liberal" might have provided McCain's margin of victory.

Huckabee is a niche candidate who has run out of niches. Perhaps more than any other two states, Iowa and South Carolina were suited to him because of their large numbers of evangelical Christians. But in each he finished fourth among nonevangelical participants in the Republican nominating process. Having no message that resonates broadly, and little money with which to broadcast it, he is in a political cul-de-sac. So far, Romney has won the most Republican votes and delegates, but Rudy Giuliani could bolt to the front in both categories on Feb. 5. Most of those contests are open only to Republicans, and based on January's evidence, that is good for Romney and ominous for McCain. At the moment, however, it remains possible, perhaps even probable, that each party will offer its oldest and most familiar candidate, Clinton and McCain, to a nation clamoring for a rupture with the recent past.

Dr. Robert Rushton, President of the Foundation, is please to announce this years' 2008 Scholarship fund of $5,000 will be offered to a Mendocino County High School Senior. The Scholarship is offered to a graduating student who is seeking a career in medicine, i.e., becoming a physician, nurse and or/other related health care fields. To be eligible, students must have proof of enrollment into an academic institution.

Last year, the Foundation Scholarship was awarded to Kathryn King, of Kelseyville High School. The Foundation has also awarded a $5,000 Scholarship to the Mendocino Community College Nursing Program. The Nursing Scholarship will be administered by the Mendocino College Registered Nursing Program.

Applications have been mailed to all High Schools in Mendocino County. The deadline for the application is May 1. For more information call Robert L. Faulk, Executive Director of the Foundation for Medical Care at 462-7607, or fax 462-1206, e-mail, mendolake_medsoc@yahoo.com. All interested students must be recommended by a High School academic adviser, counselor, teacher or principal.

New health and education series planned

The Ukiah Senior Center is starting a new series of programs which will encompass a wide variety of subjects.

Local community professionals, practitioners and individuals will provide presentations in mini workshops or lectures which will be open to citizens of all ages.

Some of the topics planned are: Health (Acupuncture, Holistic and General Health tips); How to Protect Yourself on the Web; Lifestyles; Finances/ Investments; Organizations and Community Resources such as Hospice, HICAP, Project Sanctuary; Cooking Classes; Identity Theft; Fire & security Tips; Simple First Aid (recognizing strokes, etc., what to do); Government Officials; a Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care workshop where the public could actually complete the health care directive document during the session; Business involving developing a web site; and Veteran panels or discussions

The series is designed to stimulate interest in community service, provide helpful advice and instruction, educate and increase awareness in prevention and coping with physical ailments and to benefit the community at large.

For more information on the upcoming programs or to volunteer your services to conduct a presentation, contact Betty McGlade at 467-0960.

Battered and neglected but not beaten yet

Over the recent three-day weekend I took a short drive to the South Ramp of Lake Mendocino. A friend and I frequently do this just to see the beauty.

Sometimes we park and watch the people, the different boats and rigs, the fishing groups, the duck and bird feeders, and just the fun of observing the families and friends of all ages taking their boats in and out of the water at the ramp.

This past summer we went often, specifically to watch the water level which, as we all know, has dropped to record low levels. As boaters we mourned over the loss of the privilege to dock our boat at the lake. As people who enjoy fishing, our licenses went to waste unless we decided to drive to another county with our boat.

We weren't the only losers. The grocery, liquor, convenience stores, and restaurants & fast food operations lost big. Visitors to the lake have to replenish their food supply either for cooking or dining and they bought locally. The gas stations lost the revenue for the lake visitor's autos, RVs, trucks and boats.

I know that we went to Clear Lake and investigated Blue Lakes for future launching and day use once it was clear that the lake would be continually drained with no regard to wildlife or the public. We just never realized it would be allowed to get as low as it did.

During this weekend I mentioned, as I drove into the lot (about 2 p.m. in perfect weather), I passed the parking area for the "walkers on the dam." The lot was full. At least 20 cars were there. Looking out on the road to the dam, I could see up to 5 different groups of people walking, running and playing along the road, some walking their dogs by leash.

The boating parking lot was about one-third full which was a surprise. There were no boating trailers, just vehicles. As I parked I looked around and saw several people around the duck area, and specifically a young father climbing up the steps holding the hand of his 3-4 year old son with his right hand and an empty bread bag in his left It was a touching scene.

At a nearby bench there was a mother with her daughter about 7 years old, sitting and watching the ducks being fed, and looking out at the dam road, the beautiful view and enjoying nature. Several older men were gathered around the tailgate of their trucks talking and laughing, while some of the younger sets were joking around and enjoying male bonding across the lot.

Then I spotted a man going down the steps with a large bag of feed on his shoulders. I could see him reach the lake floor which is now hard mud and solid, and begin to walk across the 200-300 feet of lake bottom out to a little inlet. He just put the bag down and stood there and waited. It seemed interesting, and so I watched what would unfold. The birds spotted him and began flying toward him from all points of the lake. It was an amazing sight. He waited about five minutes until the birds gathered about ten feet from him in the water and patiently waited for the others to get there. They knew what was coming!

Sure enough, he picked up the bag and started at one end of a circle where the water began and slowly tipped his bag downward onto the hard silt and walked towards the other end circle until there was a crescent of food about 18 inches wide in a perfect half circle. It was a very dramatic scene and beautifully executed. The birds did not wait for him to leave but immediately began feeding.

I wondered what was going on in his mind as he viewed the beauty of what he had done, and what a kind gesture it was. It had to be a powerful feeling. . . . touching nature in such a way and setting such a fine example for everyone that watched the scene. As he came back up the stairs I got out of my car and asked him how often he did that, and he responded, "twice a week." He was very modest, in his 30's-40's and I thought quite the young hero as he got back in his truck and drove off.

When I returned to my car and reflected on all I saw in that 20 minutes or so, I realized that even though Lake Mendocino has been sorely neglected, stripped of its natural beauty by Sonoma County, and was at a criminally low level for fish and fowl, people were still using it as a place to visit and enjoy. The sights and sounds I heard reminded me of the many picnics there with friends, family, employees, and organizations when the lake levels were normal

It was common for our family to camp out at Boater's Island for a week during the summer and the rest of the time to dump our boat in the water a few late afternoons mid week and putter around the lakefront until dusk. We would look for deer, squirrels, hawks, blue herons, cranes, and if we were lucky, spot an otter or an eagle.

Lake Mendocino is a money maker for Mendocino County and the community. The income it brings in would stagger you. I saw a statistic once that 500,000 people visited our lake in one year. If every visitor spent ten dollars, then you do the math to figure out how much revenue is being lost when boating is forbidden and there is no beach or water, therefore why camp?

There are protectors of the birds, the trees, the Russian River, the "growth" of the city, and so many other causes, that maybe we need to look real close at our beautiful lake and make it our cause. There are Friends of the Library, Friends of the Museum, and Friends of History in every country, why not Friends of the Lake? As far as I am concerned it is environmentally threatened right now. The fish population is suffering and I wonder why Fish and Game is not concerned and fighting for the

I know that I miss the opportunity to use the lake that is right around the corner and instead have to drive to Lake County or elsewhere and spend my dollars there. I would much rather spend it locally. Right now most of our lake has such a large amount of visible mud instead of water, that my sign-off has a very specific meaning- if people want to do something. Remember, Out of the Mud Grows the Lotus.

Frenchman Tsonga knocks Nadal out of Australian Open for a shot at title

By JOHN PYE

Associated Press

MELBOURNE, Australia Jo-Wilfried Tsonga had been compared to a young Muhammad Ali only because of an uncanny likeness to the boxing great.

That was until he skipped across Rod Laver Arena, arms up in a biceps-flexing pose, thumbs pointing at his head after knocking out Rafael Nadal in the semifinals and getting a title shot at the Australian Open.

Nadal, ranked No. 2, got a taste of what No. 8 Richard Gasquet, No. 9 Andy Murray and No. 14 Mikhail Youzhny faced in earlier rounds.

Tsonga's groundstrokes were audacious, his hand speed amazing. And he had the Spaniard stumbling well before he aced him on match The unseeded point. Frenchman, hampered by injuries for much of the last three seasons, eliminated Nadal 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

"For me it's a big dream. It's just amazing — I played unbelievable," Tsonga said. "Everything went in. My backhand worked a lot and my serve also. My forehand, my volley, my drop shot, everything. I was moving on the court like never I move, so everything was perfect."

When Nadal tried to counterpunch, Tsonga had an answer — a half volley from ankle height, a powerful backhand or crisp forehand pass.

This was Nadal's worst defeat at a major since his second-round loss to Andy Roddick at the 2004 U.S. Open — 6-0, 6-3, 6-4. All of which means that for unexpected player is in the Australian final.

Marcos Baghdatis, who edged Tsonga for the world the third straight year, an junior No. 1 ranking in 2003, was the surprise finalist in 2006. Chile's Fernando Gonzalez rode his big serve and powerful forehand to the final last year.

Both lost to Roger Federer, who plays No. 3 Novak Djokovic in the other semifinal Friday night. Federer has played in the last 10 Grand Slam finals, including a win over Djokovic in the last U.S. Open final, and is bidding for a 13th major title.

Djokovic was one of three Serbians in the semifinals at

Eagles overwhelmed by Solano

Sarah Baldik/The Daily Journal The Eagles' Amber Shepherd (5) releases a jumper in a game earlier this season. Against Solano on Wednesday evening, Shepherd had eight points.

For the Daily Journal

The Eagles stepped onto the court Wednesday night at Solano College with an opportunity to officially rebound from their slow start to the season. By beating Solano, they would have secured first place in the Bay Valley Conference (BVC) standings all for themselves at 5-0 and certainly established themselves as a force to be reckoned with.

Solano, however, was not going to fortably, 62-45.

allow that to happen on their home court. They came out on a mission, determined to claim first place for their own by taking advantage of their huge player advantage (14 girls to just seven on the Eagles' squad). They pressured the Eagles (5-12, 4-1) 90 feet the entire game, forcing numerous turnovers and taking advantage of them to build a 25-point lead at one point before going on to win com-

"We got pushed on our heels too many times," said Mendocino women's head coach Jody Steliga. "Luckily the types of mistakes we were making can be fixed for the next time we face Solano.

"But we will keep that on the back burner because our next game is just as important."

The Eagles played a strong first half, only trailing Solano by eight at 32-24, but

A's expecting Harden to be healthy for season-opening series in Japan By JANIE McCAULEY

Associated Press

OAKLAND — Athletics manager Bob Geren is ready to put Rich Harden at the front of his rotation, hopeful the righthander will be healthy enough to pitch in Oakland's season-opening series against the Boston Red Sox in Tokyo.

Harden and Joe Blanton will likely be the A's starters against the World Series champions in Japan on March 25 and 26.

"If it started right now, it would be Blanton and Harden. There's no need to try to hide that. Those are our guys," Geren said Thursday, a day after returning from a trip to Tokyo to help promote the series. "We'll have two starters in Japan and they'll also be the same two who will open up here.'

Harden has been on a throwing program four days a week in Phoenix and "doing well," Geren said. The right-hander could begin pitching off a mound by the middle of next week.

The 26-year-old Harden went 1-2 with a 2.45 ERA in only 25 2-3 innings in 2007 because of an inflamed right shoulder and didn't pitch after July 7. He threw two simulated games late in the year with the hopes of making two final starts, but ultimately decided it wasn't worth risking further injury.

He was 4-0 in nine games in 2006, spending time on the disabled list with a strained back and then a strained elbow ligament.

Harden and Blanton will be relied upon to lead a young rotation.

Oakland traded ace Dan Haren to the Arizona Diamondbacks last month and also dealt popular outfielder Nick Swisher, leaving the A's in a rebuilding phase that general manager Billy Beane

Tiger Woods gears up for Buick Invitational now, U.S. Open later

By DOUG FERGUSON

Associated Press

SAN DIEGO — Tiger Woods had already hit a 3-wood toward the sixth green when his caddie began taking measured steps in the right rough as if looking for a lost ball. Instead he was searching for a sprinkler that used to be easy to find.

"It was in the fairway last year,"

Steve Williams said.

That was one sign that the fairways already are becoming more narrow on the South Course at Torrey Pines. And when Woods, Phil Mickelson and the world's best return in four months, those fairways might resemble bowling alleys.

The Buick Invitational begins Thursday, the '08 debut for Woods and Mickelson.

In the back of their minds is the Pines is the hardest golf course in the U.S. Open, which comes to this public course on the cliffs of the Pacific Ocean for the first time.

The course might not look the same, except for the routing of the holes, the refurbished lodge, and the unending views of the ocean. The U.S. Open already has built two new tees, on the par-5 13th and par-3 16th, that will not be used this week. The greens figure to be much firmer and faster. The splotchy rough will be uniformly Woods won the Buick Invitational last year at 15-under 273.

Chances are, no one will be under par in June.

"I actually think that if the conditions stayed the same at Torrey Pines as any other golf course, I think Torrey country," Mickelson said. "Because it's 7,600 yards at sea level, with no bailout on any hole, bunkers are left and right, pins are tucked and there's no letup.

The Buick Invitational was expecting a stronger field than it got because of the U.S. Open.

Sergio Garcia and Adam Scott were among those who chose not to return this year, instead playing the Qatar Masters in the Middle East. Henrik Stenson got in his practice round last month, signing up as a twosome and getting paired with a couple that only recently learned how to play. The result was 11 of the top 30 in the world, while 10 of the top 30 are on the European Tour this week.

Whether that matters is up for Some believe the more you see a golf course, the more comfortable you get with the intricacies. Then again, the Torrey Pines played this week for a regular PGA Tour event might not resemble the course used in the U.S. Open.

"They'll miss out on some of the nuances of the course that they might have seen had they played," Mickelson said. "But they'll have to make up for that. They'll come out early before the U.S. Open and get a number of practice rounds so that they find out or know what to expect on the

NFL | DRAFT Trojans have heavy Senior Bowl presence

By JOHN ZENOR Associated Press

MOBILE, Ala. Pete Carroll and Lane Kiffin observing, John David Booty throwing passes and All-America defensive tackle Sedrick Ellis manhandling blockers, Senior Bowl week has seemed at times like Southern California, southern style.

The Trojans put nine players into Saturday's game, easily the most of any college team and the most since Auburn had nine in 1988. Plus, Kiffin was the Trojans' offensive coordinator and recruiting coordinator before leaving to coach the Oakland Raiders after the 2006 season. It's just one big happy USC reunion.

"It's a neat story for them to all be here, and I'm just glad to see them all doing well," said Kiffin, head coach of a North team that is stocked with USC players.

Carroll was just a spectator he attended Wednesday's practice. This time Kiffin was the boss, watching North players from various teams run plays and participate in drills.

Booty, Ellis and Co. are the ones looking to make that NFL jump Kiffin has already taken. "It's a familiar face that I saw the first three years of my college career," Booty said. "Now it's a lot different than it used to be. He used to be the one sitting next to me talking. Now he's the one kind of standing back. It's awesome just to see him and the success

"Now he's the big dog. You've got to respect that."

Joining Booty and Ellis in the game are Trojans offensive linemen Sam Baker and Drew Radovich, tight end Fred Davis, defensive lineman Lawrence Jackson, linebacker Keith Rivers, defensive back Terrell Thomas and running back Chauncey Washington.

The week wasn't about reminiscing with Kiffin, though.

Baker said he got to visit with the coach early in the week for "one second."

"It's definitely convenient him coaching (here)," Baker

The USC bunch alone represents the makings of a pretty impressive team. At times, Booty could be protected by, handing off to and throwing to some of the same guys that helped him lead USC to an 11-2 record and Rose Bowl victory "All these guys that are here are deserving, and there are a few back home that should be here as well,' Booty said.

Carroll believes both the experience of playing for USC and participating in the Senior Bowl help prepare his players for the NFL.

"Our players have been coached like these guys coach, so it will be an easy transition for all of them, said Carroll, a former NFL head coach. "I encourage my kids to come to this game. I know how important it is for them as they prepare for the draft and their careers in the

Besides his fellow Trojans, Booty even has a former high school teammate to keep him company during a pressure-packed week. LSU running back Jacob Hester played with him at Evangel Christian High School in Shreveport,

They spent much of Sunday at the players' hotel watching NFL playoff games.

'We don't even talk about football," said Hester, who is playing for the South team. 'It's just catching up with an old friendship. We're around football so much that we just kind of put that to the side.'

Any rivalry between the two college powerhouses doesn't carry over to the Senior Bowl.

"We've always had the USC-LSU deal," Booty said. "This is nothing really compared to that."

On the women's side, No. 4 Ana Ivanovic was down a set and a break against Daniela Hantuchova before rebounding for a 0-6, 6-3, 6-4 win to reach her second Grand Slam final. She will meet another 20-year-old player, Russia's Maria Sharapova, who beat Jelena Jankovic 6-3, 6-1.

Sharapova took only three games off Serena Williams in last year's final and wants to make amends.

"You have your bad moments in your career and have your good moments," said Sharapova, who won Wimbledon in 2004 and the 2006 U.S. Open. "It's been a good ride so far, but it's not over yet.'

Ivanovic won her first game while down 2-0 in the second set. That brought cheers from the crowd, and she said it was inspiration.

She broke Hantuchova twice to make it one set apiece. After battling to hold serve in a 10-minute game that went to deuce seven times, she broke again and served out to reach her second final in four majors.

Nadal, the only man to beat Federer in the last 10 majors, had no explanation for his performance.

"I was playing fine," Nadal said. "He played unbelievable. Congratulate him."

Tsonga didn't face any break points until the third set, when he saved three in one

"I can't believe some of his volleys," Nadal said. "I tried to play little bit slower; I tried to play a little bit faster; I tried to play more inside the court, Australian Open.'

There was speculation the A's might try to acquire free agent home run king Barry Bonds, but that was a more realistic notion before the slugger was indicted on perjury and obstruction of justice charges in November.

The A's finished a disappointing 76-86 last year after reaching the AL championship series the previous season, but they did place third in the division on the final day ahead of last-place Texas. Oakland had its streak of winning seasons end at eight, and went 9-17 in September for its worst final month since going 8-20 in 1985.

Last year was the club's first losing season since going 74-88 in 1998.

"I think the perception is not accurate," Geren said about rebuilding. "That's not the perception from the inside, certainly not from myself and the message I'm going to portray to the players. behind the court. No chance. Not today.'

Tsonga broke Nadal at love to finish off the first set. With Nadal serving at 3-4 in the second, the Frenchman set up break point by spinning 360 degrees to reach a volley, then raised a finger to indicate "One more."

A powerful overhead on the next point gave him a 5-3 lead. Tsonga served three aces the third on a challenge after it was called out — to set up triple set point. He closed with a forehand winner.

Three points from the end, he hit an overhead so hard and deep that Nadal fell over, off balance. He followed with a low, flat forehand and an ace to cap it off.

Tsonga shook hands with Nadal at the net, then walked slowly to the chair before the magnitude of it hit him.

He jumped back onto the court, shuffling around like a prize fighter. He clapped his hands over his head and then clasped them together in front of him.

"The truth is, I didn't have chances in this match," Nadal said. "In this level like he played tonight, it's very difficult to stop.'

Tsonga's run of injuries began in late 2004. A herniated disc caused him to miss five months through March 2005. Then came two right shoulder injuries later in 2005, back and abdominal ailments from October 2005 to February 2006 and the reoccurrence of an abdominal injury at the end of 2006.

In all, he played only eight tournaments each in 2005 and 2006. Yet it's taken him only five majors to make his first

NBA | ALL-STAR GAME

Iverson rallies in the voting to earn starting spot in All-Star game

By BRIAN MAHONEY Associated Press

NEW YORK — With a late rally, Allen Iverson is an All-Star starter again.

Iverson surged from behind in the fan voting to earn a starting spot in next month's game when the vote totals were released Thursday night. Denver Nuggets teammate Carmelo Anthony will join him in New Orleans after earning his first starting nod. Lakers star Kobe Bryant will team with Iverson in the Western Conference backcourt for his 10th All-Star appearance. Houston center Yao Ming was voted in by the fans for the sixth straight season at center, while San Antonio's Tim Duncan was chosen as the other forward. He has been selected to every All-Star game since entering the league in 1997. Boston's Kevin Garnett, the MVP of the 2003 game, was the leading vote-getter with 2,399,148 votes. He will be joined in the East frontcourt by Cleveland forward LeBron James and Orlando center Dwight Howard, a first-time starter. Miami's Dwyane Wade and New Jersey guard Jason Kidd round out the starting lineup.

Iverson rallied to pass Houston's Tracy McGrady in the final weeks of voting to earn his first start since moving to the Western Conference early last season. He started seven straight All-Star games

Philadelphia, but fell short last year after the 76ers dealt him to the Nuggets in December

The two-time MVP of the All-Star game beat McGrady by 10,410 votes for the second guard spot and will make his ninth appearance on Feb. 17 in New Orleans.

"It's a good feeling. I think it's a tribute to my teammates and coaching staff because without those guys none of that would be possible,' Iverson said in a statement. "But most of all I just want to thank the fans for appreciating what I go out and do on the court night in and night out. It's just a great feeling and an honor, and I'm just looking forward to trying to play the best that I can play for the fans.'

Denver hasn't had two starters on the squad since Alex English and Fat Lever were both named to the team in 1988. For Anthony, it's his second straight All-Star selec-

"It feels like I'm over the hump now and people are starting to realize the hard work that I put in to get here," he said. "It's all because of the fans. They're obviously liking what they've been seeing out of me and the production that I'm giving out there on the court this season. It's finally starting to pay off."

Garnett, another perennial starter, will experience the game from the other conference for the first time.

The Boston forward will appear in his 11th straight All-Star game, second among active players to Shaquille O'Neal's 14, and ninth start. The longtime Minnesota Timberwolves star is a leading MVP candidate at midseason for the impact he has made on the Celtics, who own the NBA's best record at 33-7 after winning only 24 games last season.

"It's appreciated," he said earlier Thursday of his expected selection. "Without these great teammates of mine, coaching staff, it wouldn't be possible. I'm fortunate to be in the position where I can say we're winning and that feels good and I'm happy to be part of that.

"At the end of the day, these individuals awards are what they are, individual, but without Ray (Allen), Paul (Pierce), (Rajon) Rondo, (Eddie) House, I wouldn't be where I am."

Iverson was more than 80,000 votes McGrady, who has struggled with injuries this season, when the final update was released two weeks ago. He ended up with 1,203,152 votes. McGrady finished with 1,192,742.

James, the MVP of the 2006 game and the leading vote-getter last season, was second overall with 2,108,831 votes. He said he never looks at getting selected as tiresome.

"It's always exciting because the fans vote you in. They vote me in as a starter every year," James said. "Without the fans there's no us. They dream about having all these guys out on the court at the same time. It's their opportunity to get that. It's always special.'

The festivities in New Orleans give Wade, making his third consecutive start, a chance to escape what's been a miserable season in Miami. The Heat have the worst record in the Eastern Conference, just 1 1/2 years after winning the NBA title.

"It'll be the first enjoyment in a while," Wade said. "Being an All-Star, it's amazing to be there with the other great players around the league. It's a special weekend. Everyone makes you feel so special. It'll be great, and it totally takes your mind off your season.'

Kidd is a nine-time All-Star, but this is the first time he was voted a starter by the fans since coming to New Jersey in 2001.

The coaches from each conference will choose the reserves, who will be announced next Thursday. They have to select two forwards, two guards, a center and two players regardless of position.

Boston's Doc Rivers has already clinched the right to coach the East. The West coach hasn't been determined.

"I was telling Hank (Haney) today, we were yelling out on the first tee, "All clear on the No. 1 fairway,' that kind of thing and keep playing. I've seen what can happen here that time of year, and I do feel comfortable on this golf course. It's a matter of having my game show up at the right time. You've got to make sure it peaks at that time.'

Woods would like it to peak in April, July and August, too.

He brought attention to his game earlier this month by saying the Grand Slam was "easily within reason," which should not be mistaken for handful of tough saves, although the tight-checking Jackets Blue limited Chicago's offensive space and chances.

easily accomplished. Even a guy with 13 majors realizes there's always a few breaks that come with winning the biggest events.

But he is confident about his game, having won four of his last five events on the PGA Tour, including the PGA Championship.

"For most of my career, I've won more than four tournaments per year, and all I have to do is win the right four," Woods said. "And I've done those a few times. I think if you put it all together, have luck on your sides, all the stars will line up, and it certainly is possible.

The PGA Tour has been consumed in recent weeks by the suspension of a Golf Channel anchor for jokingly suggesting that young players "lynch" Woods in a back alley, the firing of a magazine editor for putting a noose on the cover, anti-doping meetings and even a new cut policy that has left some players steaming.

A Simple Way to Your Child's Education

To help battle the high cost of education, use the newspaper as a simple answer to many questions. From social studies, to the arts and sciences, the newspaper is an inexpensive way to diversify the daily curriculum.

The advantages of Newspapers In Education (NIE) are many:

- Affordable, Special student rates make newspapers affordable textbooks covering a variety of subjects.
- Improves reading skills. Evidence has shown there is a correlation between knowledge and achievement among students who read the newspaper.
- Up-to-date. The newspaper is a current source of information which gives students a realistic look at events.
- High interest rates, Students have a high interest in the newspaper because of the variety of subjects covered. There's something for everyone.

For information on how you can become involved in NIE, call (468-3500) today.

Soup, not War parade set for this Saturday

CodePink Willits is planning a parade to coincide with the annual Sip Some Soup event on Saturday, Jan. 26. The parade will begin at 4 p.m. at the Broaddus Creek bridge (on Main St. near the corner of E. San Francisco St.) and proceed to the Willits Civic Center before the 5 p.m. start of Sip Some Soup (which is a benefit for Willits Daily Bread).

This parade, and informational flyers, will call attention to the loss of lives and resources spent on war instead of taking care of needs -food, shelter, health care, education, the environment -- here at home. They will also urge voters to consider candidates' positions on these issues in the upcoming primary election

All are welcome to join the parade, rain or shine. If possible, wear or accessorize pink; pink banners will be provided. Participants who wish to create their own signs can meet at 2 p.m. that day for a sign-painting party by calling Melinda at 456-9525.

Penny wise when it comes to wine

With the economy in turmoil and family budgets battered by the holidays, we're all looking for ways to save money. But frugality doesn't have to mean deprivation, especially when it comes to good wine. Dave Cancilla, Wine Manager at David Berkley Fine Wines & Specialty Foods, has selected ten wines that offer outstanding quality at a reasonable price. With each wine priced at $15 or less, this list will baffle those who believe that a low price tag is synonymous with poor quality.

Angeline 2005 Pinot Noir (Mendocino County, California); $14

This Mendocino County Pinot Noir is produced from fruit that abounds with intense fruit and rich aromas. By "cold soaking" the crushed grapes and fermenting them at moderate temperatures, bright fruit flavors are extracted from the grape without harsh tannins. This Pinot Noir is a brilliant, deep ruby color with delicate aromas of strawberry and a soft whisper of vanilla. Bright flavors of ripe raspberries and strawberries, layered with subtle nuances of vanilla oak, lead to a rich, full fruit finish.

Chardonnay (Monterey); $12. "Everything you would expect in a $20 bottle of wine for half the price," comments Cancilla. Distinct aromas of apricot, peach and pineapple are balanced on a delicate threat of oak. This is a wine that goes well with seafood or chicken.

Tormaresca Chardonnay (Puglia, Italy);

"Interesting, spicy take on a Chardonnay," says Cancilla. Lemon, pear and hazelnut aromas combine toasted nut flavors with soft spices. Pairs perfectly with creamy/nutty pasta dishes.

Dr. L. 2006 Riesling (Mosel, Germany); $11.

'Clean, fresh, slightly sweet," notes Cancilla. This is a classic Mosel Riesling that pairs well with seafood.

Neil Ellis Sincerely 2007Sauvignon (Stellenbosch, South Africa); $12.99.

'Tastes identical to a French Sancerre, but at than half the price," said Cancilla. Plump grapefruit and peach flavors are complemented by a lingering citrus and herb fin-

Pietra Santa "Sacred Stone" Master's Red Blend Old World Style Red Wine; $9.99

"This wine is great at breaking through everything you know about wine, yet the wine is wonderful," explains Cancilla. Dark ruby color, with warm, fruity flavors and a hint of raisins and spice. Full bodied and slightly tannic, it's made by a California producer and bears no regional appellation or vintage.

Mark West 2006 Pinot Noir Mark West California Pinot Noir 2006: $14

"Soft, supple and full in flavor," says Cancilla. Bright, fruity flavors with notes of vanilla, cedar, brown sugar and spice.

Alois Lageder Pinot Bianco (Trentino-Alto Adige, Italy) 2006; $15

'Fresh enough to be an aperitif and rich enough to be served with lobster." Light to medium-bodied with apple and peach flavors and a clean, elegant finish. Pairs beautifully with seafood and pasta

Chateau Haut Barreyre 2005 Bordeaux (Langoiran. Blanc France); $15

"A sensational vintage," adds Cancilla. Light and clean with an integration of cherry, olive and oak flavors.

Colleen Fernald, Northern California coordinator for Kucinich's presidential cam-

"The campaign is in debt, so his wife won't be coming,' she said.

On Thursday, San Luis Obispo resident and scheduler Elizabeth Kucinich, Sandra Marshall, said she was unable to make a statement before Kucinich's official announcement.

"I can't really make a comment," she said in reference to the chances of Elizabeth Kucinich making the event. "I would probably say no at this time."

Fernald said she will still hold the event in support of Kucinich's presidential bid despite the probable absence of the congressman's wife.

Rep. Kucinich had previously been scheduled to make a stop in Ukiah to preside over a town hall-style meeting at Mendocino College December, but later canceled. Elizabeth Kucinich was then announced as his replacement for the event, but also backed out after news came that her husband's brother had died. In the end, Dennis Kucinich instead delivered a prerecorded speech.

A total of 4,049 delegates are chosen during the course of all national Democratic primaries with the winning candidate needing a simple majority, or 2,025, to win the nomination at the party's national convention, which will be held from Aug. 25 to 28 in Denver.

On Feb. 5, the "Tsunami Tuesday" presidential primary will commence when a total of 1,688 delegates will be pledged, including California's 441 delegates.

Fernald said she was disappointed by the news of Kucinich's announcement, but said supporters should still vote for the candidate as his name will be on the ballot.

"We're still trying to get that 15 percent of the vote to get that delegate," she said. Until Thursday, Kucinich had only one "superdelegate" vote from supporter Jon Ausman, a Florida representative of the Democratic National Committee. Ausman's vote has now been placed back on the nonendorsing list. Superdelegates are delegates to a presidential nominating convention in the United States who are not bound by the decisions of party primaries or caucuses. Superdelegates are elected officeholders and party offi-

Kucinich, the former mayor of Cleveland from 1977 to 1979, has represented the 10th District of Ohio in the House of Representatives since 1997. He was also a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in 2004 and got 14 percent of Mendocino County Democratic votes, 1 percent shy of the 15 percent needed for a delegate.

The congressman made headlines in April when he introduced House Resolution 333 that, if passed, would impeach Vice-President Dick Cheney for manipulating intelligence to fabricate a threat of Iraqi weapons of mass destruction, alleging a relationship between Iraq and al Qaeda and threatening aggression against Iran despite the absence of any real threat.

Kucinich has stated he will not endorse any other candiit will be interesting to see people walking around here and listening to the tour. The audio tour has been pretty successful so far. This is the fourth venue, and it's very flexible."

The exhibit was created and organized by the Exhibition California Resources Alliance, a network professionally-operated and museums cultural organizations that collaborate to create exhibitions for museums in smaller markets. Smith-Ferri, who worked on the committee with the CERA to create the exhibit, said it was specifically designed for smaller museums like Grace Hudson. And with a chance to test out new technology the museum could use in the future, Smith-Ferri saw it as a great learning opportunity for everyone involved.

"This display allows us to test the audio tour, and look at using it in the permanent collections area. It would allow us to have that option, and it's easy to put in place," she said. "This tour allows for a more direct connection."

Although testing out a new technology is fun, Smith-Ferri said the real benefit comes from the enhanced learning experience for visitors.

"I love poetry, and I love there are paintings, photographs and sculptures on display, with some of the works coming from two local artists: Linda Noel and Frank Tuttle. Noel's "Independence Day," hangs within the display and is available on the audio tour as read by Noel. In addition to Noel's reading, Tuttle also recorded audio for the tour explaining two of his pieces, "Sister "Fataveenan" and

Series for Judith Lowry." The "Sister Series for

Judith Lowry" piece hangs within the culture and heritage portion of the exhibit and was literally made for Lowry -whose work is also on display. Smith-Ferri said Tuttle's piece of one of the many to-andfrom pieces on display, and it is the portrayal of Lowry as dreamer. According to Smith-Ferri, the artists are a supportive network for one another, helping to motivate and inspire one another through their work.

"Sometimes they are each other's best audience."

"Sing me your story, dance me home" runs until April 20, and Smith-Ferri said it's a cultural experience and technological test not to be missed.

"Some of the places where the exhibit goes will be eyeopening for people. It's a very personal display."

The Grace Hudson Museum and Sun House is located at 431 S. Main St in Ukiah. The opening program and reception for the exhibit is Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. with illustrated talks by Tuttle and Kathleen Smith, along with poetry readings by Noel and Shaunna Oteka McCovey. The museum is open Wednesdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., and from noon until 4:30 p.m. on Sundays.

For more information about the other events associated with this exhibit, call 467-2836 or visit the museum on the Internet at www.gracehudcampaign," presidential Kucinich said. "I'm making that announcement tomorrow about a new direction.' Kucinich has received little support in his presidential bid; he got 1 percent of the vote in the New Hampshire primary and was shut out in the Iowa caucuses. He did have a devot-

Kucinich, 61, is facing four challengers in the Democratic congressional primary March 4, and earlier this week he made an urgent appeal on his Web site for funds for his re-election. Rival Joe Cimperman has been critical of Kucinich for focusing too much time outside of his district while campaigning for president.

His decision comes a month after the death of his youngest brother, Perry Kucinich.

Kucinich said he will not endorse another Democrat in the primary.

Kucinich brought the same sense of idealism to his second run for president as he did in his first bid. He said he was entering the race again because the Democratic Party wasn't pushing hard enough to end the Iraq war. Once dubbed the "boy mayor" of Cleveland, he made an unpopular decision to refuse to sell a publicly owned utility that pushed the city into default and drove him from office.

After the city's financial troubles, the mayor faced death threats, and was forced to wear a bulletproof vest when he threw out the first ball at a Cleveland Indians game. He barely survived a recall vote.

But he lost his bid for reelection as mayor of Cleveland in 1978 to Republican George Voinovich, who went on to become governor and then U.S. senator. His life and his political career were derailed. Kucinich spent more than a decade trying to get back into politics - traveling around the country and then working as a teacher, consultant and television news reporter.

In 1994, Kucinich was elected state senator and he then won a seat in Congress in 1996. His once unpopular stand against the sale of the municipal electric system was praised as courageous. In 1998, the Cleveland City Council issued him a commendation for having the foresight to refuse to sell During his time in Congress, Kucinich has been one of the most outspoken liberals, opposing international trade agreements like the North America Free Trade Agreement and marching with protesters in Seattle during a meeting of the World Trade Organization.

As a presidential candidate, he has proposed a Department of Peace, backed universal health care and supported gay marriage. He also pushed impeachment of Vice President Dick Cheney.

At a debate last October, Kucinich delivered one of the night's lighter moments when he confirmed seeing an unidentified flying object at the Washington state home of actress Shirley MacLaine. With a smile, he said he would open a campaign office in Roswell, N.M., home to many alleged UFO sightings.

Storm

from the Gulf of Alaska brought with it cold temperatures and snow that fell from Santa Cruz all the way through Mendocino County. But it's the low pressure system that moved over Northern California Thursday that has brought with it some of the lowest snow levels of the year.

Despite several days of cold temperatures, Agricultural Commissioner Dave Bengston said the weather is not expected to have a negative impact on local agriculture.

"Nothing I've seen in the weather indicates a problem for the grapes, or the pears or the apples," he said.

Bengston said wine grapes, Mendocino County's biggest crop, are not likely to be harmed by the cold because they are currently dormant. "I has to get pretty cold to kill grapes," he said.

Bengston also said fruit trees like pears and apples require a certain amount of "necessary chilling," for the fruit to ripen effectively.

"At this point I don't really see a risk," he said.

The recent rainfall is also not expected to be a problem. "The rain is always welcome," Bengston said. In December of 2007, storage in Lake Mendocino dropped below 30,000 acrefeet, the lowest it's been since 2002. Storage has been climbing steadily since rain began to fall in late December. The rain will also help water local fields, helping to regrow the grass that cattle ranchers depend on.

"It's pretty much all good news," he said.

A number of shifts in conditions will be in the offing for you in the year ahead. The one that will be the most interesting and please you the most, however, could involve financial situations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) -- Generally, you are the type of person who always gives others the benefit of the doubt. But should this admirable quality be inoperative and you misjudge those you're with, trouble will PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) -- Be friendly and sociable with neighbors or drop-ins, but not to the point where you ignore your obligations. Those who are depending on you will be deeply disappointed if you don't come through for them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) -- If you back down under pressure from others who aren't as qualified as you concerning a hard decision you've made, don't expect to achieve your objectives. You can't be successful operating on uncertainties.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) -- Doing what pleases you is apt to take precedence over doing your duty or doing what is right. You may have momentary fulfillment, but the price you pay is not worth

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) -- Someone you are trying to help might be the very person who will give you the greatest resistance. It won't matter to him or her whether you are right or wrong -- only that he or she is momentarily satisfied.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) -- Testy conditions will prevail concerning a joint arrangement, especially if neither party is willing to accept the other's point of view. Either one could ignite a major confrontation at the drop of a hat.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) --When it comes to someone who has helped you out when you needed assistance, make every effort to come through for him or her now. Don't let minor desires take precedence over this obligation. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) -- If you are smart, you will keep gambling out of all competitive activities you have with friends. Regardless of the outcome, it is one of those times when all you'll get out of it is poor winners and sore losers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) -- Yield to your compassionate instincts, and let vour heart rule your head in all involvements that are vital to you. Most important, don't attach any strings to your generous gestures.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) -- Some secret news you have may make very interesting conversation if revealed to others, but it will not be honorable and certainly not worth losing valuable relationships over. Don't report the juicy gossip to others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) -- Be extremely cautious about getting involved in a business arrangement with a close friend. If conditions don't complement the venture, it won't be just the pursuit that could fail, but the relationship as well. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) -- Your objectives can be achieved, provided you are able to remain friendly and grateful for the help you receive. If you become anxious and pushy, the people whose help you need will back off under the discomfort.

Father-in-law keeps drinking despite health issues

Dear Annie: My in-laws have a small business out of their home, where I work for them. Because I am there every week, I notice a lot. For instance, I knew my father-in-law drank By Kathy Mitchell and Marcy Sugar every day and then drove his car on errands. I made it clear that my son was never to be in the car if Grandpa was driving.

A year ago, my husband caught his father drinking in the middle of the day. When he attempted to discuss it, my father-in-law became angry and told him it was none of his business. Soon after, Dad's doctor told him he had almost destroyed his liver and would have to stop drinking or die. My mother-in-law claimed she had no idea Dad had a drinking problem, and she has no interest in giving up her daily glass of wine to be supportive.

For a couple of weeks, Dad took pills to help him stop drinking, but he didn't attend any rehab programs or meetings. Meanwhile, my mother-in-law continues to drink wine every night until she slurs her speech.

ANNIE'S MAILBOX

A few months ago, my toddler found several bottles of alcohol in Grandpa's car, and lately, I have smelled alcohol on his breath. He's also gone back to taking long naps (meaning he's passed out). I finally told my husband and he asked his brothers to talk to Dad together, but they are afraid it will create a rift.

Dad does not have any follow-up appointments scheduled with his doctor, whom I do not know. What can we do? -- Daughter-in-

Dear Daughter-in-Law: Your father-in-law knows he has a drinking problem and prefers not to address it. His wife also has a drinking problem, so she does nothing to discourage her husband's alcohol abuse. A family intervention might help, but not unless your husband's siblings are willing to participate. All you can do right now is see that your child does not visit his grandparents unless another sober adult is present, and that he never rides in a car with either of them behind the wheel. You also should contact Al-Anon (al- anon-alateen.org) at 1-888-4-AL-ANON (1-888-425-2666).

Dear Annie: I work in an office that is mostly female. Three months ago, we hired a guy who constantly tells us personal information about all the board members, past employees and current applicants whom he has Googled. In one case, he did extensive research on a past employee who just came into the office to say hello.

One can only assume he has looked all of us up as well, although he has not admitted it. As time goes on, I find him to be just plain creepy, but he has not done anything to indicate he is dangerous. Is there a red flag I am missing? Is this just a case of obsessive snooping, or should I be more worried? -- Just Want To Do

My Work and Go Home

Dear Just Want to Work: If all the guy is doing is looking up whatever information is available on the Internet, he's a busybody, but he isn't dangerous. If he starts checking out your house, you have cause to worry. Tell him the constant snooping is rude and a little frightening and you'd like him to stop.

Dear Annie: You printed a letter from "In a Quandary," who asked what kind of host gift to give to a man. He said he felt funny giving flowers and the guy didn't drink.

All of your alternate suggestions were excellent, but I'd like him to know that some males do like getting flowers -- especially those of us who grow them. We may not be as fond of the frilly pink varieties as we are of the bold reds, oranges and bronzes, but we still enjoy receiving them. -- Mike in Holland, Mich., Home of the Tulips

Dear Mike: There are plenty of men who garden and grow flowers and would surely appreciate a bouquet. Thanks for saying so.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Mendocino Council of Governments (MCOG), which is the regional transportation planning agency for Mendocino County, will meet on Monday, February 4, 2008, at 2:00 p.m. or as soon thereafter as possible, at the Ukiah City Council Chambers, 300 Seminary Avenue, Ukiah, CA to consider the following item:

Public Hearing - Adoption of 2008 Regional Transportation Improvement Program

The Mendocino Council of Governments, will hold a public hearing to consider adoption of a Regional Transportation Improvement Program (RTIP) which will program or place in reserve approximately $8.1 million made available to the region through the 2008 State Transportation Improvement Program (STIP). The RTIP will cover the fiscal years FY 08/09 through FY 12/13, however, new funding will primarily be available in FY 11/12 and 12/13. Funding may be programmed for projects on the local roads, state highways, transit, or non-motorized transportation projects, as well as transportation planning activi-

This RTIP will also include any federally funded projects which require inclusion in the Federal State Transportation Improvement Pro-

The purpose of this public hearing is to receive public testimony prior to formal adoption of the 2008 RTIP, which is due to the California Transportation Commission February 19, 2008.
